INTRODUCTION

The 'Act to prevent the further growth of popery,'<sup>1</sup> passed in 1703, made it obligatory on converts from catholicism to protestantism to provide proof of conformity. A protestant, according to this Act, was a member of the Church of Ireland only. The legal disabilities in relation to property, professions, etc., imposed on the catholic by the Act, ceased to operate when he became a protestant, or, in the words of the Statute:

from the time of the enrolment in the High Court of Chancery of a Certificate of the bishop of the diocese in which he shall inhabit testifying to his being a protestant and conforming himself to the Church of Ireland as by law established.

It should be noted that these provisions took effect from the date of enrolment, not the date of conformity.

This Act further prescribed:

The said Court of Chancery is hereby required to take care that distinct rolls be kept for the enrolment of such certificates which shall publicly hang up or lie in some public office or place belonging to the said Court to be appointed, where all persons may at all reasonable times resort to and peruse the same without fee or reward, and for the enrolment of each and every such certificate the sum of six pence and no more shall be paid.

These rolls were known as the Convert Rolls.

The 1703 Act also stipulated that:

No person shall take benefit by this Act as a protestant within the intent and meaning thereof that shall not conform to the Church of Ireland as by law established and subscribe the declaration and also take and subscribe the oath of abjuration.

1. 2 Anne, c.6.

The statute does not prescribe any particular formula for recantation, apart from the oath and declaration.<sup>2</sup> It appears that the convert read his renunciation of catholicism before a clergyman and congregation at a public service, usually on Sunday. He obtained a certificate to this effect from the bishop of the diocese and enrolled it in the Court of Chancery. The following is an example of a certificate of conformity:

2. The oath and declaration as embodied in the Act are:— I, A.B., do solemnly and sincerely, in the presence of God, profess, testify, and declare, That I do believe that in the sacrament of the Lords-supper, there is not any transubstantiation of the elements of bread and wine into the body and blood of Christ, at or after the consecration thereof, by any person whatsoever; and that the invocation or adoration of the Virgin Mary, or any other saint, and the sacrifice of the Mass, as they are now used in the Church of Rome, are superstitious and idolatrous. And I do solemnly, in the presence of God, profess, testify, and declare, that I do make this declaration, and every part thereof, in the plain and ordinary sense of the words read unto me, as they are commonly understood by Protestants, without any evasion, equivocation, or mental reservation whatsoever; and without any dispensation already granted me for this purpose by the Pope, or any other authority or person whatsoever, or without any hope of dispensation from any person or authority whatsoever, or without believing that I am, or can be acquitted before God or man, or absolved of this declaration, or any part thereof, although the Pope or any other person or persons, or power whatsoever should dispense with or annul the same, or declare that it was null and void from the beginning. I, A.B., do truly and sincerely acknowledge, profess, testify, and declare in my conscience, before God and the world, That our Sovereign Lady Queen Anne is lawful and rightful Queen of this realm, and of all other her Majestie's dominions and countries thereunto belonging. And I do solemnly and sincerely declare, that I do believe in my conscience, that the person pretended to be prince of Wales during the life of the late King James, and since his decease, pretending to be, and taking upon himself the style and title of, King of England, by the name of James the third, hath not any right or title whatsoever to the crown of this realm, or any other of the dominions thereto belonging: and I do renounce, refuse, and abjure, any allegiance or obedience to him. I do swear, that I will bear faith and have allegiance to her Majesty, Queen Anne, and her will defend to the utmost of my power against all traiterous conspiracies and attempts whatsoever, which shall be made against her person, crown or dignity. And I will do my best endeavour to disclose and make known to her Majesty, and her successors, all treasons and traiterous conspiracies, which I shall know to be against her or any of them. And I do faithfully promise to the utmost of my power to support, maintain and defend the limitation and succession of the crown against him, the said James, and all other persons whatsoever, as the same is and stands limited by an Act intituled 'An Act declaring the rights & liberties of the subject, and settling the succession of the Crown,' to her present Majesty and the heirs of her body being Protestants: and as the same by one other Act, intituled 'An Act for the further limitation of the crown and better securing the rights and liberties of the subject,' is, and stands limited, after the decease of her Majesty, and for default of issue of her Majesty, to the Princess Sophia, electoress and duchess dowager of Hanover, and the heirs of her body being Protestants. And all these things I do plainly and sincerely acknowledge and swear, according to these express words by me spoken, and according to the plain and common sense and understanding of the same words, without any equivocation, mental evasion or secret reservation whatsoever. And I do make this recognition, acknowledgement, abjuration, renunciation and promise, heartily, willingly and truly, upon the true faith of a christian. So help me God.

James, by divine providence Lord Bishop of Down and Connor. To all whom these presents shall come, Greeting. We do hereby certify that Richard O'Brian, now an inhabitant of the County of Antrim, hath renounced the errors of the Church of Rome, and that he was by our order received into the communion of the Church on Sunday, the twenty-eight day of April last, and that the said Richard O'Brien is a protestant and does conform to the Church of Ireland as by law established.<sup>3</sup>

The bishop's certificate was essential for enrolment until 1782, when an Act was passed 'for rendering the manner of conforming from the popish to the protestant religion more easy and expeditious'.<sup>4</sup> From 1782 it was sufficient for the convert to take the sacrament from a minister of the Church of Ireland, take the oath and make the declaration before him, and file a certificate from him to that effect in Chancery within six months. These were known as Ministers' Certificates.

In 1709<sup>5</sup> it was further enacted that no convert should be deemed to be a protestant 'within the intention of this or the former Act' or should 'take benefit thereby' unless within six months after declaring himself a protestant he received the sacrament 'according to the usage of the Church of Ireland', subscribed the declaration in 2 Anne c. 6, took the oath of abjuration and filed 'the certificate thereof'. A 'sacrament certificate', certifying that he had received the sacrament and taken the oath was to be lodged in one of the four courts in Dublin, in addition to the bishop's certificate of conformity.

3. Public Record Office, Northern Ireland. T.C.D. MSS 2010-2015 (Caulfield) contain 32 original renunciations and certificates from the diocese of Cork and Ross for the years 1730 to 1751. These indicate that the convert first signed his renunciation of catholicism before the bishop who certified it, and directed the minister of the parish from which the convert came to receive him into the Church of Ireland. The convert then read his abjuration at a public service on Sunday before the minister, who appended his certificate, witnessed by two church-wardens, to that of the bishop. Eleven of these renunciations and certificates are in manuscript and differ from each other in the wording used, but after 1747 the renunciations and certificates are in printed form. The wording on these, too, differs somewhat from the declaration against transubstantiation in the 1703 Act. In no case is there any reference to the oath. None of the certificates gives an address or other information about the convert, apart from the name of the parish. Two of these certificates are drafts only but, of the remaining 30, only twelve appear to have been enrolled on the convert rolls.

The Convert Rolls were transferred from the Chancery Division to the Irish Public Record Office in 1867. Although they were destroyed by fire in 1922, they had been calendared and recorded.<sup>6</sup> The Calendar of Convert Rolls, in two volumes, is still in the Public Record Office. Volume I, covering the years 1703 - 1789, contains about 5,500 names; Volume II, covering the years 1789 - 1838, has about 380, with only 73 names from 1800 to 1838. The names are entered in alphabetical order, in order of date under each letter. The Calendar lists the convert's name, date of certificate and date of enrolment, and supplies addresses or other information for about half the names. About 2,000 converts either conformed in Dublin, or described themselves as 'of Dublin', presumably in an attempt to avoid publicity. A typical entry is as follows:

'Mahony, Denis, Blackwater, Co Kerry, gent., cert. 24 March 1747, enrolled 16 May 1748, 68b'.

As the Calendar is the most comprehensive list available, it has been used as the primary source in compiling the following list of converts and is cited as source (A).<sup>7</sup>

Other lists of converts are in existence. The most important, also in the Public Record Office, was compiled by John Lodge, one time Deputy Keeper of the Rolls, who died in 1774. His list was evidently intended as a guide to the original rolls and is entitled 'An Alphabetical list of Converts'.<sup>8</sup> It is listed in the catalogue of the Public Record Office as 'Lodge's Convert Book'. With the exception of about a dozen names

6. None of the convert rolls has survived, to my knowledge, but it would seem that they were divided into twenty rolls or 'parts', since the Calendar refers to 'first part', 'third part', 'tenth part', etc. The first part covers the years 1703 to 1727; the second part from 1727 to 1733; the third part from 1734 to 1738 and so on, up to the twentieth part, which ends in 1838. The names appear to have been entered on the front or 'face' and on the back of each roll, and numbered consecutively on each side to the end of that 'part' or roll. A number seems to have been entered for every name, indicating whether it occurred on the face or back of the roll.

7. There is also in the Public Record Office a two-volume index to the convert rolls, up to 1775. Vol. I, entitled 'Convert Book 1731', appears to have been compiled alphabetically in order of enrolment. Many of these converts are described as 'Esq.' or 'gent'. This list of 1150 names contains some who enrolled after 1731, the latest in 1738.

8. Lodge's list runs to the latter part of 1773. He reproduces the numbering, 'part', 'face', 'back' etc., as in the Calendar (see note 6). The numbers are useful for checking discrepancies in christian names, spelling or dating between the different sources. When two christian names are given, i.e., 'Colling, Mary' in the Calendar, and 'Colling, Bridget' in Lodge, it has been assumed that, as they have the same number and date, they must relate to the same person.

this list, which runs to 1773, is the same as the Calendar, but Lodge gives the date of conformity as well as the date of certificate and enrolment. In most cases the certificate was issued on the day of conformity, or shortly afterwards, but there are about a dozen examples, especially in the early years of the century, of a long gap between the two dates.<sup>9</sup> Lodge frequently supplies information on the convert's status or occupation and place of origin. It would appear that he furnished this from his knowledge of genealogy, and that the original rolls contained little or no information other than that found in the Calendar.<sup>10</sup> It may be noted that Lodge appears to be consistently accurate while the Calendar has occasional errors, where names or dates were apparently mis-copied from preceding entries. Although Lodge's list ends in 1773 it must be regarded as the next most important source, and is cited here as source (B).

What seems to be an exact copy of Lodge's Convert Book is to be found in Egerton MS77 in the British Museum, now on microfilm in the National Library.<sup>11</sup> A close comparison disclosed no name that is not in Lodge, and no additional information. Manuscript 405 in the National Library contains a selected list of less than 1200 converts based on the Egerton MS, but has no information not found in Lodge.

A pamphlet was printed in Dublin in 1732 entitled 'An exact list of all such persons who have conformed to the Church of Ireland from the popish religion and enrolled their certificates since the year 1703 when the Act to prevent the further growth of popery was made.' This list of about 670 names ends in 1731 and appears to have been compiled in chronological order from the rolls which according to the 1703 Act, were to be

9. Jeffrey Blake, of Drum, Co. Galway, who was certified and enrolled in 1703, is said by Lodge to have conformed about nine years before hand; Paul and Jeffrey Davis, of Clonshanville, and Bryan Kelly, whose conformities in 1695 are among the earliest listed, did not obtain their certificates or enroll until 1709. Among other examples are Owen Mooney, of Corcollin, King's Co., enrolled 1704, and Murtough Mahony, of Tyrelltene, Co. Kerry, enrolled 1721, who were said to have conformed 'many years beforehand.' Ann Dobbin, of Waterford, conformed 1706, enrolled 1723; Ellinor Dobbin, of Limerick, conformity 1732, enrolled 1741; John Egan, of Garrowle, Co Tipperary, conformed 1716, enrolled 1722, Patrick Fox, conformed 1722, enrolled 1734.

10. Fr. Francis Finegan, S.J., in an article entitled 'The Irish Catholic Convert Rolls' (Studies, Vol. XXXVIII) traces the identity of some converts through records of conversions in contemporary newspapers. He comments on the absence of some well-known convert names from the Calendar list. It appears probable that a substantial number who conformed never enrolled. See also Fr. John Brady's extracts from 18th century newspapers in Archivum Hibernicum, Vols. XVI-XX and XXVII.

kept available for public inspection. All the names, with three exceptions,<sup>12</sup> occur in both the Calendar and Lodge, although there are about twenty discrepancies in spelling, duplication or date. This pamphlet gives the names only, with no additional information beyond an occasional 'Bart.', 'Esq.' or 'Priest', and the date of enrolment. It is cited here as source (C).<sup>13</sup>

The 1703 Act required all office holders under the Crown to take the oath and make the declaration in one of the four courts in Dublin and to file a sacrament certificate. These sacrament certificates were not abolished for members of the established Church until 1832.<sup>14</sup> However, in practice, they seem to have been required from office-holders only and not from converts generally. The name of 'all such persons and officers' taking the oaths in court were to be enrolled 'in rolls made and kept only for that purpose'. No catholic could vote at elections without taking the oaths at quarter sessions and producing a certificate of having taken the oaths.

The volume containing the Calendar of Convert Rolls (Volume I) has an additional list of names entitled 'Converts' certificates of taking the oaths' which runs from 1703 to 1838. Lodge's Convert Book contains a similar list, with the same title, which ends in 1773. Both appear to be lists of those catholics who, after conforming to the Established Church, took the oaths in court and filed their sacrament certificates under the 1703 Act in order to obtain an office of profit or other material advantage, such as the right to vote. The Calendar list of converts having taken the oaths ends in 1782; after this date the names are those of foreigners taking oaths on naturalization. The list includes landowners, lawyers, doctors and women.<sup>15</sup> Many of these enrolled their oath certificates at the same time as, or shortly after, they enrolled their convert certificates. Approximately 4,700 converts enrolled in the period 1703-1782. Converts taking

12. Alice Aylmer, alias Fitzwilliam, enrolled 1723, Francis St Leger, enrolled 1704, and Mary Sherlock, enrolled 1729 do not appear in the Calendar or Lodge, although Francis St Leger is on the Oaths list.

13. A manuscript list of converts was transcribed, apparently from the original rolls, by the late Mr. Ignatius Jennings, some years before 1922. It is entitled 'Rolls Office, Chancery. Converts' Rolls Certificates with Index 1703-1789'. This MS., which was kindly lent by Rev. Brother Allen, C.B.S., North Richmond Street, follows the chronological order of the rolls, but, as it adds nothing to the information provided by the Calendar, has not been cited as a source.

14. 2 William IV, c. 7. Protestant dissenters were exempted from the sacramental test in 1780 (19 & 20 Geo. III, c.6).

15. Office holders and those wishing to vote for members of Parliament had to prove that their wives were protestants.

the oaths number approximately 2,300 for the same period, and nearly 2,000 of these names are, as might be expected, in the Calendar of convert rolls. Others cannot be identified positively for lack of information. However, about 200 'converts' who are listed as having taken the oaths do not occur in the Calendar of convert rolls. It seems likely that some of those who conformed never completed the formality of enrolling their certificates. It would appear also that the rolls were not very well maintained, and some names may have been lost. An Act of 1719, the first <sup>16</sup> of many such Acts, indemnifying office-holders against penalties for non-compliance with the 1703 Act, says: 'Many who have duly qualified themselves may through the carelessness of those who keep the rolls of subscription be under great difficulties in proving that they did qualify themselves for their respective offices under the said Act'. This might also explain why there are at least fifty examples of converts and converts taking the oaths who appear to have enrolled twice.<sup>17</sup> These lists of 'converts having taken the oaths' taken from both the Calendar and Lodge, helped in identifying many names on the Calendar of convert rolls, especially those described in the Calendar as 'of Dublin'. It has therefore been cited as source (D) in the following list of converts. The 200 convert oath-takers not found in the other sources are listed separately in appendix II.

The Calendar, (A), has been taken as the primary source, then Lodge, (B), the 1732 pamphlet, (C), and finally, the list of converts having taken the oaths, (D). The information from the Calendar is not repeated, but any supplemental data or variations in spelling and dating have been included, together with a reference to each source in which the name appears.

As previously stated, the total of enrolled converts was approximately 5,870. The fact that only 700 were enrolled between 1703 and 1731 suggests that at that period many catholics managed to evade the operation of the Acts.<sup>18</sup> This view is reinforced by the 'Report on the general state of Popery' made to the House of Lords in 1731. The majority of these early enrolments appear to be people of substance. After 1731 the

17. Some converts appear to have conformed and enrolled twice, on different dates; others have been calendered twice, with variations in the spelling of their names, e.g., Angier, Augier; Archer, Arthur; Banaghan, Ranaghan; Brady, Grady; Clegg, Cregg; Crawley, Crowley; Dwyer, Wyer; Carr, Kerr; Humphreys, Umphrey, etc. About a dozen women are enrolled under both their maiden and married names.

18. The effectiveness of the 1703 Act may be judged by the fact that between 1703 and 1709 only 36 converts enrolled.

conversion rate increased as follows:—

|                   |            |       |             |
|-------------------|------------|-------|-------------|
| From 1703 to 1731 | there were | 704   | enrolments, |
| From 1732 to 1741 | " "        | 600   | "           |
| From 1742 to 1751 | " "        | 549   | "           |
| From 1752 to 1761 | " "        | 864   | "           |
| From 1762 to 1771 | " "        | 1,347 | "           |
| From 1772 to 1789 | " "        | 1,421 | "           |

After 1789 the rate dropped sharply, there being 385 enrolments from 1789 to 1838, with only 73 from 1800 to 1838. Three of these entries are foreigners completing their naturalization. (One entry occurs after 1838 — that of Viscount Garrett Butler Galmoy in 1845). It may be noted that most of the enrolments are for the second half of the century; there were only 1,860 converts enrolled up to 1751.<sup>19</sup>

For obvious reasons most of the converts were men, but women number almost 1,500. About 600 of these are described as married women, about 40 as widows, and the remainder either unspecified or described as spinsters, daughters of gentlemen, etc. The 1697 Act<sup>20</sup> entitled 'An Act to prevent protestants intermarrying with papists' imposed legal disabilities regarding property, voting rights, etc., on those who contracted mixed marriages. The protestant partner was enjoined by the Act to procure the conversion of the other party. A protestant man marrying a 'popish maiden or woman', having converted her and obtained a certificate to that effect, 'shall procure the said certificate to be enrolled in the Court of Chancery'. It seems probable that most of the women converts were either married or contemplating marriage. Lodge, at the beginning of his Convert Book, lists the names of thirteen women converts 'whose certificates are enrolled on the Patent Rolls'. These names are not in the Calendar, although they appear inside the cover of the Index to the Convert Rolls. These thirteen enrolments took place before 1716, one in 1695, nine before 1704, and have been included in the list. There are about 220 examples of husband and wife enrolling on the same day, and frequent instances of several members of one family doing so. On 26 March 1768 six members of the Dines family conformed, and on 3 February 1762 four Hussey sisters conformed. There are several examples of multiple enrolments in one parish; on 15 October 1747 twenty-three people from Clogheen, Co. Tipperary enrolled.

19. The rate of conversion varied in different years. The highest yearly total was in 1783 with 260 enrollments, 95 of them in August, with 75 for 15th August. There were 220 enrollments in 1768, 145 in 1761, 137 in 1774 and 94 in 1776. Mr. W.H. Crawford of the P.R.O.N.I. has made a graph of enrollments 1703-1790 illustrating the discrepancies in the rate of conformity.

20. 9 William III, c.3.

Of the men converts, 33 are members of the peerage or baronetage, four of whom conformed after 1829. There are 70 priests, of whom only 8 conformed before 1760. Lodge rarely gives any information on the priests; sometimes he does not even describe them as such, except by a small cross (+) in the margin beside the name. They have been listed in Appendix I. About 1,700 men are described either as 'Esquire' (340), 'Gent' (550), or 'Mr.' (800), with the information coming mainly from Lodge. It should be noted that the absence of Lodge as a source after 1773 means that there is very scanty information on the converts from 1773 to 1838, and that this figure of 1,700 men of substance is probably incomplete. The sources do not always agree on the description, and several examples have been noted of a man being described as 'Esq.', 'Mr.' and 'Gent', and 'grocer' or 'draper', 'Mr.' and 'Gent'.

The occupations, where listed, of the remaining converts are extremely varied. There are only three barristers, one attorney-at-law and one counsellor-at-law described as such at the time of their conformity. An Act of 1727<sup>21</sup> made it obligatory on barristers, solicitors, and court officers to prove that they had been protestant for two years before applying for call or admission, while sub-sheriffs or sheriff's clerks had to prove that they had been protestant for five years before taking office. Wilson's Dublin Directory for 1765 lists 331 barristers, 31 of whom appear to have conformed before their call to the Bar. Six women on the list of converts are probably wives of other barristers in the Directory list. Solicitors and attornies cannot be identified with the same certainty, since the dates of their admission to practice are not given, but out of 680 attornies listed for 1765, at least 75 appear to be converts. Other eighteenth-century directories might well disclose other names. It appears from the oaths list that some who had conformed, presumably in order to practise law, gained preferment later.<sup>22</sup>

Apart from peers, those with sufficient standing to merit at least the title of 'Mr.', and women, the other professions and occupations total about 300 in all. They have been set out in tabular form at the end of this introduction.

21. 1 Geo. II, c.20. Nevertheless, Charles Connell, of Leitrim, who conformed on 5 June 1761, is described on the oaths list as sub-sheriff of Leitrim on 14 July 1761.

22. Some examples of these are: Edward Savage, conformed 1754, described on the Oaths list as Counsellor-at-law 1763; James Fitzgerald, conformed 1767, 3rd Serjeant-at-law in 1779; Patrick Brady, conformed 1760, attorney of the Exchequer in 1762; John Kirwan the younger, of Ballygaddy, conformed 1734, attorney of C.P. and Exchequer in 1763; Michael McNemara, conformed 1756, attorney-at-law in 1763. On the other hand, Mathias Reilly, described in the oaths list as attorney of K.B. in June 1765, and James Shannon, similarly described as barrister-at-law in 1773, are not listed in either the Calendar or Lodge and may be among those who conformed but never enrolled.

Finally, it should be noted that the dating is in the 'Old Style' used prior to the reform of the calendar on 2 September 1752. After 1752 'New Style' dating is used.
